A Letter from Rev. Edie

Rev. Edie Lenz, Pastor

Think back to your childhood, to the special meals, family traditions, or even the ordinary patterns of meals during the week. Did your family have a set menu each week; maybe you knew the day of the week by what was for dinner. Did your family have particular foods that were only ever made for special occasions, foods you always wished you could have more often? Was Sunday dinner or Saturday night of particular importance? Where did you learn to cook? Who taught you how to put together particular ingredients? Are you self-taught or were you helping as a child, standing on a step stool in the kitchen? Maybe you were banished from the kitchen, but remember the smells wafting through the house.

For all of us, food is central to our lives, we need food to survive but food is also central to human gatherings. Food is not just necessary to live, it is necessary to thrive. Special meals, particular dishes, certain gatherings of other people all remind us of the importance of nourishment, not just of our bodies, but our souls as well. The table: in the kitchen, dining room, patio, church, restaurant, or even a fold out-tray is central to our identities as people in community. It is around tables that we laugh and cry, fellowship, and find ourselves connected. It is around the table that we find food not just for our bodies, but our souls.

When I was a kid, birthdays were of particular importance. On your birthday, you got to decide what was for dinner. Birthdays were the day you didn't have to negotiate with anyone else's preferences; it was a day that mom and dad were willing to make whatever it was you asked for. I remember groaning at some of the choices my brother would make, but being so excited at the end of that same month when it was my turn to decide what I wanted to eat to celebrate my birthday. On your birthday, your choice of meal and cake was served, and you were celebrated around the table. These meals were a way of showing love to one another. As we got older and learned to cook, mom received the same attention on her birthday.

I remember dinners in the basement of our church; my favorite night of the year was Maundy Thursday. Before the evening service, there was a Seder meal downstairs, the celebration of the Passover, remembering that Jesus also celebrated the Passover. I remember gathering around the long tables in Fellowship Hall eating strange flavors and sipping grape juice, imagining what it would have been like for Jesus to have a meal like ours with his disciples. Then we would move upstairs to the sanctuary and gather around a different table, a sacred table, a table that offered only a sip of juice and a piece of bread – the very body and blood of Christ.

On Sunday mornings we gather around tables after worship because it is a part of our gathering as a community, a part of how we celebrate God's love together.

During Lent, we gather on Wednesday evenings for dinner, we gather around tables to pray, sing, eat and worship. We gather not because it is convenient or always the simplest option, there are faster and easier ways to eat dinner. We are nourished when we gather. We feed one another well at HHPC; we believe in the importance of good food but food is so much more than nourishment. It is around tables that we find connection and community. It is around tables that we might just find that the Spirit has drawn near to us.

As we walk through this season of Lent, I invite you to be mindful of gathering, mindful of nourishment, mindful of God's very presence at the tables around which you gather, whenever you gather. How does God draw near when we slow down long enough to sit at the table?

Grace and Peace in Christ,
Rev. Edie

SUNDAY READINGS AND REFLECTIONS

Shown below are our themes and scripture focus during Lent. You can prepare for worship by reading and reflecting on them before Sunday worship.

Join us on Sunday at 10:00 a.m. in person or virtually. If you miss a service, they are available later on our website at www.hickoryhillspres.org.

REFLECTIONS

What feeds your soul? What activities, spaces, and times bring you joy or refresh you?

We all need connection with other humans. Who are the people in your life that love you deeply and nourish you with their connection?

We need nourishment for our bodies and our souls. How do you nourish your body well? For the month of March, take on a healthier practice of nourishment: go to bed on time, eat a healthy lunch, choose more vegetables, take a walk.

One of the images of Jesus is as Living Water. What is the role of water in our lives? We take for granted its importance and how precious it is.

Take some time to notice the role of water in your world; reflect on how Jesus is Living Water.

HHPC'S MISSION: Serving Others, Together

Mission Report by Kim Ambrosat

FEED THE NEED: A CALL TO SERVE

Over the weekend of February 18-19, 2023, members of HHPC, Faith United and Orland Park Presbyterian Church joined with the Feed the Need Mobile Pack to assist in packing 808,704 meals! These meals will go around the world to meet the needs of children. At Feed the Need, we learned that the needs in our world today have increased to levels that Feed My Starving Children (est. 1987) have never seen before.

We are thankful that our MC8 partner churches joined our efforts; there were 60 of us total who went over several different shifts. What a great opportunity to share, celebrate and serve!

NEW DISPLAY IN BIBLE STUDY ROOM

Downstairs in the Bible Study room you will see a display board compiled by Mike Swearingen (thanks, Mike!). This visual information board shows guidelines to follow when submitting plastic bottle caps and/or lids for their eventual submission to the plastic company who melts down and creates the amazing benches that you see around our church. This illustration also makes the job easier for Mike and his crew as they do their final inspection.

Great Works of Passion

Within the world of classical music is the oratorio. This is a form of music based on oration (or story telling). Technically, it is an opera without costuming, action or scenery. The singers and choir usually perform the entire work standing. Most of the orchestra is seated. Oratorios are mostly religious-themed.

Composers began writing oratorios as far back as the 16th century in Italy. By the 17th century, composers wrote these massive works throughout the rest of Europe. The 18th century was the most prolific time for its popularity. Both Bach and Handel took advantage of this.

Some of the great oratorios written by J. S. Bach include the St. John Passion (1724), St. Matthew Passion (1727), the Easter Oratorio (1725), the Christmas Oratorio (1734) and the Ascension Oratorio (1735).

G. F. Handel wrote the Resurrection (1708), Esther (1732), Deborah (1733), Israel in Egypt (1738), and, of course, The Messiah (1741).

Since then, other composers have continued the tradition: Joseph Haydn (The Seasons, 1801), Beethoven (Christ on the Mount of Olives, 1803); Mendelssohn (St. Paul, 1836; Elijah, 1846); Berlioz (The Damnation of Faust, 1846). The list goes on to the present day. All of these have been recorded and are available to any listener.

Indeed, the oratorio has remained a great work of passion for the past 500 years.

Gathering in Fellowship Hall on Sunday, February 12, 2023, guests relished in a variety of flavorsome soups made by our Souper Sunday Chefs.

We thank everyone who participated and those who pitched in to make these delicious soups and those who helped set up and clean up.

Souper Sunday raised $170 for the Fund for Human Need.

We look forward to next year's event!

Spring Cleaning Tips

Springtime gives us a chance to get a head start on our spring cleaning. Spacing out your tasks makes it less overwhelming. Don't rush . . . take it slow . . . room by room, appliance by appliance and soon you'll give your home's nooks and crannies a refreshed look. Here's a few tips to get you started.

Keep crumbs out of hard-to-reach places. If there's a gap between your stove and your kitchen counters, there's a good chance food bits have made their way into this tight, dark space. Pull out the stove and sweep or vacuum out the debris and then mop wash the hidden area.

Organize the fridge. Large refrigerators are great to have, but they can get cluttered fast. Keep your fridge organized by removing the packaging from multipacks of drinks and single-serve yogurts. Use roll-out refrigerator bins to keep small items together and, to help reduce food waste, rotate older food items to the front before adding new groceries.

Keep storage spaces organized. If you use your garage or an outdoor shed as a storage space for things that don't fit inside the house start by organizing all your items into three piles: keep, donate and toss. Organize smaller items by product type in labeled bins and store them on shelves along the walls to maximize floor space.

Spray down the windows and dust the blinds. Raise blinds or shades and wash windows with glass cleaner and a microfiber cloth. Then lower the blinds or vinyl shades and dust them with a duster. Finish by vacuuming the fabric shades and drapes.

Wipe down the walls. Rid painted walls of greasy fingerprints, dust and stains by wiping them with a damp microfiber cloth or a clean, damp microfiber mop. Start at the top and work your way to the bottom. Want to challenge yourself a little more? Wipe the doorframes and baseboards too. Tile walls in bathrooms can be cleaned the same way, though you may want to pair the damp microfiber cloth with a disinfecting bathroom cleaner to take care of any germs, too.

Freshen up musty carpets. Refresh your carpets by using a portable carpet cleaner with a rotating brush. To rid your carpet of odors, sprinkle baking soda or carpet deodorizer on your carpet. Using a soft brush, work the baking soda into your carpet and let it set for 15 to 30 minutes. Vacuum the baking soda off the carpet with a fresh bag or clean dirt cup. If you notice unsightly stains on your carpet, it might be time for a deeper clean with a cleaning service or think about investing in an at-home carpet cleaner.

Get rid of kitchen sink unpleasant odors. Drop a couple of lemon rind slivers into your garbage disposal, and turn it on for 15 to 30 seconds. Follow with cold water to flush out any bits of lemon rind that remain.

Clean the microwave. Clean up those annoying tomato stains once and for all. To clean your microwave, fill a large microwave-safe bowl with one cup of water and a lemon, lime or orange cut into thin slices or several tablespoons of vinegar and stick it inside. Turn the appliance on high for several minutes or until the solution boils and the window is steamy, then let it cool for five minutes before opening the door. Remove the bowl and wipe the inside and outside of the microwave with a sponge.

Deep-clean the fridge. In addition to wiping down your fridge's interior shelving on a regular basis, give the removable bins and shelves a deep-clean every now and then. Pop out the door shelves and bins and wash them in warm, soapy water to help get rid of food bacteria and spillage.

Clean your oven. Use the appliance's self-cleaning function to remove stubborn, baked-on grime. If your oven doesn't have one, place a hot, wet cloth on top of burned spots to help soften the gunk. Then apply an oven cleaner and let stand for as long as the manufacturer recommends. Rinse with a wet cloth and wipe dry.

Scrub down kitchen cabinets. Unsightly kitchen grime is a mix of dust and grease that builds up over time. Run the exhaust hood over your range every time you cook to keep grease from settling. To de-gunk, use a cabinet cleaner to cut through dirt and leave wood moisturized. Do an extra pass around any places where grease collects, like door and drawer pulls.

Reorganize the junk drawer. Once you empty out your drawer, suck out dust and crumbs with your vacuum's nozzle. Toss, relocate or donate any items you no longer need or that don't belong there. Everything else goes back, but this time in an organized manner. Repurpose pretty plates and bowls to store cords, stamps and other odds and ends or consider a drawer organizer.

HAPPY SPRING CLEANING!
